

Streamside workshop

Tom Moran's craftsmanship is now based on the Kennet.

SHORTLY AFTER Tom Moran, the highly esteemed cane rod-builder was featured in FF&FT ('Magic wands', April 1997 issue) he moved premises. Now, Peter Whiting has joined him in partnership to form the T.Moran Rod Co. from a workshop on the classic English chalkstream, the Kennet.

Boosting the art of traditional cane rod making into the 21st Century, T.Moran Rod Co. also have a web site. You can visit it via the internet on http://members.aol.com PWhiting01/index.html or by the postman at 4, Home Farm Workshops, Mildenhall, Marlborough, Wiltshire SN8 2LR. Tel: 01672 515315.

But be warned. Remember when Peter Lapsley went to interview him, so smitten was he with the rods, that he returned home a few hundred pounds less well off!
